RED RUFFED LEMUR

A fruit-eating lemur that lives in one small Madagascar forest.

1. What can it see, hear, or feel? It smells scent marks, listens for barking alarms, and uses sharp eyes to judge branch to branch.
2. Where does it live — and why? It lives only in one rainforest corner of Madagascar, where tall trees carry fruit all year.
3. How does it send messages? It gives loud barking calls to warn of danger and roars with the group to claim its home.
4. How does it learn? Babies follow their mother, watch which trees hold ripe fruit, and learn alarm calls early in life.
5. What does this teach us? An animal that depends on one small forest teaches us how fragile an environment can be.
